HMSV3505Designing and Facilitating Learning Experiences for Health and Human Services*COURSE DESCRIPTION

Leaders in health and human services need skills and tools to develop workshops and training opportunities for not only their workforce, but also for their patients, clients, and communities. Using design thinking skills to put the participant at the centre of the planning decisions helps the learner use an inclusive approach to curriculum design and development. Learners consider approaches that are equitable and recognize the diversity of participants through all levels of planning and development. Learners focus on scenario-based and/or real-life training needs throughout the course and use curriculum development models to guide their practice. The abilities developed within this course, including analytical and facilitation skills, help the learner accommodate diverse trainees and individual, organizational, and community training needs.

The terms that apply to a student's use of Turnitin are described on Turnitin.com.

Online Exam Proctoring:

Examinations for this course may require proctoring through an online proctoring service. Online proctoring enables online exam taking within a controlled and monitored environment, thereby enhancing academic integrity. Online proctoring may occur through a variety of methods, including but not limited to:

- a. live online proctoring where a remote invigilator authenticates identity and observes completion of an exam using specialized software and recordings;
- b. automated proctoring where the exam session is recorded and AI (artificial intelligence) analyzed;
- c. browser lockdown that limits access to other applications, websites, copying, printing, screen capture and other functions; or
- d. a combination of both live/automated proctoring and browser lockdown.

Course instructors will review recordings, analyses, and data obtained through online proctoring for academic integrity infractions. It is the student's responsibility to meet the technical, software, location, and identity verification requirements necessary to enable online proctoring.

Further details of these policies are available in the Academic Calendar and on the Bow Valley College website, bowvalleycollege.ca.

Learners are encouraged to keep a copy of this course outline for future reference.
